Annuity

Build guaranteed income into your retirement plan

Access to pension plans are dwindling (in fact, vanishing by half in each future generation^{*}), which may be leaving you with uncertainty around generating a guaranteed income stream that meets your needs in retirement.

One option is the North American Income[®] single premium immediate annuity (SPIA) from North American Company for Life Insurance[®]. The North American Income SPIA can provide you with a predictable source of income – one that not only could help you prepare for life’s challenges, but that also could secure a protected income stream that cannot be outlived.

The North American Income SPIA provides you with the following advantages:

- Guaranteed income based on the payment option you select.
- Seven options to help tailor income stream to your needs.
- No additional decisions required after payment options are finalized.
- Payments will not fluctuate based on stock market performance. The payment you lock in will be the payment that continues for the duration of your policy.
- Backed by the A+ rated financial strength of North American Company for Life and Health Insurance[®].

The North American Income SPIA may help provide you with optimal retirement confidence if you are concerned about ...

- Bridging the income gap between retirement and social security payments.
- Reducing risk during market downturns.
- Accessing funds in the event of unforeseen circumstances or emergency.
- Providing financial assistance to a loved one or leaving a legacy.

The North American Income SPIA generates immediate income

Once you finalize your payment and choose your payout option, there are no further decisions. North American Income delivers payment security that continues... no matter what happens to the stock market or other investments.

Funding your North American Income annuity contract

You can fund your North American Income annuity contract by rolling over assets from an individual retirement account (IRA) or an employer-sponsored plan (such as a 401(k)). You could also fund the annuity by using a portion of your savings.

Minimum premium required on issue date is $25,000 for non-qualified and qualified money.

Setting up your North American Income payment schedule

Payments can be set up at regular intervals on the same day each month, and must start within one year of the issue date. While the minimum payment can be as little as $50, any payments less than $100 will only be available by electronic funds transfer (EFT) for any mode chosen.

Choose a payment schedule that works for you:

- Monthly
- Quarterly
- Semi-annual
- Annual

Choosing your North American Income payout option

There are seven payout options available to help you build the income stream that best meets your individual needs. Only need guaranteed income for a certain amount of time? North American Income can provide that. You need payments for life, and to also cover your spouse? North American Income can provide for that, too. You choose what's important to you, and North American Income delivers options to help you meet those priorities.

(see the next page for more details on your options)

The North American Income SPIA is a contract between you and North American that allows you to convert a lump sum into a stream of predictable, guaranteed payments that can last as long as you need it.

Terms defined

Owner

The person who owns and controls the annuity contract. Typically, the owner, annuitant, and payee are the same.

Annuitant

The person whose life is used to determine the amount and duration of the annuity payments.

Payee

The person who receives the payments once they begin.

Premium

Payment made to purchase an annuity.

Payout options to fit your unique goals

When you set up North American Income, you select a payout option that locks in for the duration of your policy. You can choose the option that helps meet your financial goals – whether it's providing an income stream for a certain time period ... making sure you have income for the rest of your life ... or ensuring that your spouse still has income after you're gone.

The amount and length of payments for the life options are based on the age and gender of the annuitant that you choose (or joint annuitants, if applicable). It's important to know that the person you choose as the annuitant cannot be changed at any point after the annuity contract is issued, and that you, as the owner, will be considered the annuitant unless you indicate otherwise on the application.

- Period certain only: This option provides income for a fixed number of years (ranging from five to 20 years). If the annuitant passes away during that time, payments would continue.
- Single life only: Payments are only during the life of the annuitant. If the annuitant passes away, no further payments are made to an estate or any other person.
- Single life and period certain: Selecting this option provides income for the life of the annuitant – with a guaranteed payment period (ranging from five to 20 years). If the annuitant passes away before the period ends, payments will continue for the remainder of that period.
- Single life with installment refund: This option guarantees that payments will continue during the life of the annuitant. After the annuitant passes away, payments continue until the total payments are equal to the single premium originally paid.
- Single life with cash refund: Payments are only during the life of the annuitant. If the annuitant passes away before the total payments received equal the premium, a lump-sum payment is made equaling the difference between the original single premium and any payments already received.
- Joint life with survivorship: Selecting this option creates an income stream paid for the life of the annuitant and the lifetime of his or her spouse. After the annuitant passes away (or his or her spouse), payments continue for the remainder of the surviving spouse's life.
- Joint life with survivorship and period certain: This option provides income for the annuitant and his or her spouse's lifetime – with a guaranteed payment period (ranging from five to 20 years). Should the annuitant or his or her spouse pass away, payments continue for the remainder of the surviving spouse's life. If both annuitants pass away before the period ends, payments will continue for the remainder of the period.

Note: For either of the joint life options, the survivor benefit can be 50%, 66.67%, or 100% of the initial payment amount, and the period certain durations can range from five years to 20 years.

Set up guaranteed income for life

Elizabeth has worked as the receptionist for a busy doctor's office for almost 25 years. Now that she has turned 65, she's planning to retire this coming summer and is looking forward to spending more time with her grandkids.

Her husband passed away seven years ago. As a result, she wants a retirement planning option that can help her set up a predictable, guaranteed income stream that she won't have to worry about managing on her own in her later years.

As a conservative investor, fluctuations in the stock market make Elizabeth extremely uncomfortable. She wants a solution she can count on ... even if the stock market goes down in the future.

Elizabeth worked with her financial professional to select the North American Income SPIA from North American with a single life with cash refund payout option.

She purchased a $200,000 North American Income SPIA at age 65 and can count on $11,260.99* a year for life. Plus, by selecting the cash refund option, any premium remaining after she passes can be provided to her grandkids.

Layering income streams to build retirement income

Daryl started his own construction firm in his 30s and has worked hard to build both his business and his retirement savings.

Now that he’s nearing retirement, he’s interested in building a laddering (or bucket) strategy to help provide retirement income he can count on in his later years.

When Daryl reached age 65 and stepped back from his business a bit, he put $100,000 in a SPIA annuity contract with a period certain payout of five years. This helped replace some of the income he would have normally taken from his business, by providing him with $20,493* annually for five years.

At age 67, he put another $100,000 in a North American Income SPIA, also with a period certain payout of five years (also providing him with $20,493* annually for five years). At the same time, he turned management of his company over to his son and stepped even further back from day-to-day operations.

When he turned 69, Daryl put an additional $800,000 in a North American Income SPIA and formally retired from his company. He selected a single life payout with a period certain of 20 years, giving him $48,691* annually for that time period.

He purchased a total of $1,000,000 in North American Income SPIAs. His staggered annuity payments deliver a guaranteed income stream in retirement to help Daryl enjoy the retirement he worked so hard to build.

Special notice regarding the use of a living trust as owner or beneficiary of this annuity.

The use of living trusts in connection with an annuity contract can be a valuable planning mechanism. However, a living trust is not appropriate when mass-produced in connection with the sale of an insurance product. We strongly suggest you seek the advice of your qualified legal advisor concerning the use of a trust with an annuity contract.
